About Lyndia

LYNDIA LIPSCOMB is a free spirit, footloose, and fancy-free renaissance woman. She is a freelance writer from Hollywood, California by way of Washington, DC, and now residing in Houston, TX. She considers herself a freedom fighter at heart and believes that to live life is being able to find and act on your purpose before you expire. Lyndia has spent the last 25 years of her career as an HR Director in the Corporate world. However, fueled by her love for the entertainment industry and due to raising her daughter in the limelight, she often moonlighted as a talent coach to some of the biggest stars on radio and television today.

Lyndia's creative writing began as a comedy writer for TV & Film in Hollywood. She is an entertainer at heart with a sprinkle of undiscovered comedy skills as most would say. Lyndia has owned a publishing and entertainment company since 2011. She is a mom, a grandmother, and passionate about her writing. Lyndia knows that some perceive her as giving a whole new meaning to the term: "It's Complicated", when in fact, she's just a straight shooter, no chaser type of woman. She believes in life and just simply speaking her mind from the heart.
